Running to draw attention to redistricting

Paul Mathison, 51, of Radnor, stopped Friday night in Towanda as part of [The] PennUltimate Run, which started April 1 in his hometown near Philadelphia. Since then he has covered on foot U.S. Route 30 west to Pittsburgh, U.S. Route 19 north to Erie, and U.S. Route 6 east most of the way to Scranton. From Scranton he plans to turn south via state Route 611 and other roads to Philadelphia. The purpose of [The Run], according to Mathison's website, is to "place a spotlight on 2011 congressional and legislative redistricting, and to inspire PA citizens to push the Legislature and governor to conduct this effort in an open and transparent manner."
